

Where do your Racoon Extensions Come From?

We are proud to be able to give you our guarantee of ethical sourcing & are confident in doing so because we regularly monitor our suppliers to ensure that the hair is sourced ethically.

Our hair is sourced from Indian Temples using the same traditions and standards that have been used for the past 100 years.

The donation of hair, often referred to as tonsuring, is a Hindu tradition that is thousands of years old; the people who donate their hair do so as a sacrifice to the gods to either give thanks or to ask for help. The temples then use the money from the sale of the hair to feed the poor & to provide much needed resources within their communities.

Racoon is very proud to support these communities via our hair suppliers and will continue to supply hair which is both ethically sourced and widely acknowledged as the best available on the market today.

"From my perspective I am very impressed by Racoon's dedication to education and their strong stance on ethical sourcing of hair. Having done a careful analysis of the Racoon Micro Wefts my considered opinion is that they are of an excellent quality and the most hair friendly extensions system on the market. I have no hesitation in recommending them where appropriate to clients who attend my clinic or salon." Iain Sallis A.I.T Consultant Trichologist, Member of the Institute of Trichology
